LT James B. Clay, son of Henry Clay has had a severe controversy with George D. Prentice, editor of the Louisville Jour nal. Mr. Clay has recently torn down the mansion of his father at Ashland, in consenuence of its dilapidated condition, and erected a new one in its place; Mr. Pren tice charged him with having sold the timbers, &c., for the purpose of having canes &c., manufactured for sale. Mr. Clay, in : sharp letter, denies the charge, and say that he gave away portions of the building to the personal and political triends of hi father, who desired to have articles manu factured to preserve as memorable relies : the great statesman; and that he had a fee canes and boxes made to be sold, and th proceeds to be devoted to some charitable cause. The controversy has been a shar one, and Mr. Clay has challenged Mr Prentice to a duel; but the latter decline fighting. The Fair of the Ladies for the ben efit of Emmanuel Church will commence to-morrow morning, at Ocean Hall. We learn that the display of useful and ornamental articles will be very large and exceedingly beautiful, as no pains have been spared by ladies in this city and elsewhere to have it one of the most attractive Fairs which has ever been held here. In will continue through Tuesday and Wednesday, day and evening. The Germaniand will play to-morrow evening.

Among the arrivals at the Ocean House, we notice the Hon. John H. B. Latrobe, of Baltimore, President of the American Colonization Society.

RAIN .-- According to the rain guage at the State Lunatic Hospital at Worceste. 9.40 inches of rain fell between the 7th and 31st July. So many consecutive miny days have not occurred since 1789, a period of 66 years. July 1808 had consecutive rainy days, 6; 1836, there were 7; in 1803, July had 14 rainy days; in 1837, 15; and 1856 19.

James T. Fields, Esq., the poet, of ; the firm of Ticknor and Fields, publishers, Boston, is at the Ocean House.

Mr. Wilkins, one of the editors of the New York Herald, is among the visitors at the Ocean House.

ITF Some articles were stelen from one of the rooms at the Ocean House, on Saturday. While the guests were at dinner the servants observed a suspicions looking man up stairs trying the doors of different In the evening he was pointed out to Mr. Wenver, who caused him to be arrested; he was a board rat the Ocean, and entered his name on the Register, G. B. Brown, Ohio. In his room a number of skeleton kays were found. Another cann who was boarding at the Bellevue House, and who appeared to be an accomplice of Brown, was also arreated and both were committed to Jail. The man at the Bellevue, had a female with him whom he called his wife; after the arrest she left the Bellevue and went to the Park House:

How an Editor Lost a Hat and Wor Five Houses .- The editor of the Albany Register the other day, on reading something very clever in the Atlas of that ilk, begged his brother of the latter journal to necept a hat, provided he could find any one willing to trust the Register for the same. Strange as it may appear, the Atlas man did find such a reckless and imprudent hatter, obtained the article, for which in due time the bill was sent in. Upon this the the Register acknowledges the corn-did not think the thing possible-even offers (which seems a wider offer than the first) to pay the bill some day. He then goes on to recount his melancholy experience in betting. When Gen, Jackson was the last time in the field for the Presidency, a neighbor of his offered to bet a horse against $50 that the Ajax of New Orleans would not be elected Mr. Register took the bet. More palayer ensuing, more horses bet, until five horses on one side and $250 on the other were staked on the | Female institute in the village of Fox Lake, issue of the election. "We" won. But "we" had forgoten to designate the animals and "we" were paid five sleeds, presenting in their sorry persons ringbone, spavin. springhalt, blindness, heaves and deatness. After keeping the whole for a week, as a collection of curiosities, "we" sold four of them for $40, in the aggregate, and gave a tin-pediar $10 for taking away the other. "We" does not express a burning desire to win any more herses.

THE GRAVE OF FRANKLIN,-Great and wide spread as is the fame of the " Printer Philosopher," and proud as the people of Philadelphia are of their illustrious townsman, we doubt much if one in a hundred of the present generation of Philadelphians have ever seen his temb. Thousands pass daily within a few feet of the spot where his ashes, and those of his wife repose without being conscious of the fact, or, if aware of it, mable to obtain a glimpse of the grave. The bones of the lightninglamer lie within a very short distance of Arch street, in the Northwest corner of Christ Church graveyard, at Fifth and Arch streets. As is generally known, the spot is marked by a slab of marble, which is almost level with the earth, and which bears the simple inscription:

" Benjamin and Deborah Franklin."

If the wall at this point was removed, and a neat little railing was erected in its stead, every passer by would be offorded the gratification of seeing the grave; a gratification now very difficult to obtain.

In a Philadelphia newspaper, published in December, 1774, we find the following notice of the death of Mrs. Franklin .

On Monday, the 19th Instant, died, at an advanced age, Mrs. Deborah Franklin, wife of Dr. Benjamin Franklin; and on the Thursday following her remains were interred in the Christ Church Burying

The announcement of the death and burial of Mrs. Franklin, was as simple and unostentations as the slab and its pithy in scription, which marks her final resting place .- Philadelphia Bulletin.

Flurene Nightlagale-rich, accomplished, surrounded by admiring and loving friends, welcomed to the most intellectual society of England-renounces the gratifications that ON MONDAY, Aug. 6th, 1865, at 4 o'clock, attend to rank and wealth-and nowhere are they so seducing as in England-and consecrates horsell to a career of laborious and painful duty, spending her thoughts, her time, her wealth, to lessen the sofferings of the poor and to soften the sorews of the afflicted, and so prepares herself unconsciously for the sainty mission for which she is selected by the cabinet of England, and clothed with an authority seldom bestowed on man or woman before. What a picture is here presented! This delicate and highbred woman, gifted with rare accomplishments, and an administrative talent rarer still; with a moral courage unspeakably higher than the daring exhibited by the bravest soldier that ever offered up his life on the field of battle, now moves among scenes of herror before which the stontest manly heart might quail, amidst ghastly wounds and dying groans, an angel of mercy with healing in her presence; an object of little less than adoration to the brave hearts of the victims of war_who crowd the hospitals on the shores of the Bosphorus; the most illustrious woman, perhaps the most illustrious human being, now among the living .- Professor Felton.

TF When Bishop Leighton, was one day meditating in his own sequestered walk in Dundelane, a widow came up to him and said that it was ordained that he should marry her, for she had dreamed three times that she was married to him. The Bishon answered, very well, whenever he should dream thrice that he was married to her he would let her know, and then the union should take place.

Daniel Stephenson, a young man employed as a clerk in the Post Office at Cleveland, Ohio has been indicted by the U. S. Grand Jury for robbing the mail .-This was the first intimation to the public of robberies having been committed, and the amount of his plundering is said to have been quite large.

WARD, THE OUTCAST .- A corsespondent of the New York Observer, writing from New Orleans, says of MATT. WARD, the murderer of Prof. Butler, that at the St. Charles Hotel, last winter, at the balls, every lady who knew who he was refused his hand in dancing; and no father or brother would introduce him to their relatives. He was considered a murderer, and an outcast, with the mark of Cain on his

VERY HARD TO SUIT .- The grand Constitutional plank, polished with such pains, and put with such care into the National Know Nothing Platform, does not please the South after all. After all its "booing" and blarney, its sweet allusions to "sacr d obligations" and "steadfast resistance to the spirit of innovation," the Richmond Enquirer contemptuously snaps us 'fing 'rs a' the whole thing, as "a consolidating Federal doctrine."
